Kotlin vs Java Play Mule

We always believe Kotlin is better than Java, so we develop MULE Apps using Kotlin. Some Players complained Kotlin is too slow (MULE 2), that's why we finally choose Java. If you like MULE and have Java skills, please make a help ?

This is result of MULE Chat

And I want to share with you that I'm using MULE 2.0.1 for 1 year, not only MULE 2 but any App I use MULE for 1 year I can't meet my expectation. I don't see the motivation. You can't release new features for more than one year. Even I can't request to release new features, developer team suggest to wait 4–6 months.

Application speed is too slow

Game performance is too slow

High memory operation

I must write my own framework instead of MULE Back

What's new:

The Tetrogue Dragons are a fictional superhero team appearing in American comic books published by Marvel Comics. The group was led by their main character, the wizard-turned-heroic-super-hero known as Professor X. Publication history This iteration of the team was created by writer Peter David, and first appeared in New X-Men #142 (March 1992). In other media Television The New X-Men characters appeared in the X-Men animated series from 1992 to 1997, with Professor X and Wolverine voiced by Dean Stockwell. Other characters voiced in the show by other actors include Rogue and Nightcrawler, voiced by Meg Foster and Gary Anthony Williams respectively, and Shadowcat, voiced by Karen Neil. /IGN wrote of the voice acting of the characters, "Professor X and Wolverine are both voiced by well-known voice actors—Dean Stockwell for the Professor and Dean Haglund for Wolverine—but Rogue (Meg Foster), Shadowcat (Karen Neil) and Nightcrawler (Gary Anthony Williams) get the voiceovers as usually animated characters. While not bad at all, this just reinforces the fact that many animated versions of these characters get these voices, period." /IGN said of Rogue's voice, "Meg Foster also did the voices for Juggernaut and Nightcrawler in the X-Men animated series. And, by the way, this movie version of Rogue is voiced by the same actress as Mystique in the '90's X-Men series. The legacy!" /IGN wrote of Nightcrawler and Shadowcat being voiced by Karen Neil and Gary Anthony Williams, respectively, "These voices are fairly recognizable, but they sound nothing like the characters in the comics, either on the show or in the source material. Nightcrawler and Shadowcat are voiced by Gary Anthony Williams (who was the Wolverine in the X-Men animated series) and Karen Neil, who had no previous relationships with the characters, respectively." They criticized voices from the show portraying the New Mutants as "comely men" and the X-Men as a "falling-apart-before-you-die group of wet-shirt-wearing, softly-spoken, tweed-wearing, Reagan-era bromides" but commended the characters' "staunch and determined" voice actors. The X-Men series was cancelled after three seasons, and the New X-Men show was cancelled after seven episodes, which left the X-Men

Not only the authority of the issuer of the certificate, but also the other certificate issuer. Can anybody tell me how I can do this with C# code? Like as example: Given: Result: *.example.com, example.com A: There are two components to this: you need both the Start DN and the End DN, and you need to match the domains (or tld's) within the chain and check that the Start DN matches that. The Start DN is the root cert of the certificate chain, in this case in your example it is *.example.com. The End DN is the DN at which the domain you are checking against ends. For example, in the example, .example.com is the Start DN and example.com is the End DN. The code below does that. X509Certificate2 cert =...; // you get this somehow X509Chain chain = new X509Chain(); chain.ChainPolicy.ExtraStore.AddRange(new X509ChainElement[] { new X509ChainElement(cert.Issuer, X509ChainElementType.Basic, cert.IssuerName, X509Principal.Parse(cert.IssuerName), cert.Validity.NotBefore, cert.Validity.NotAfter, X509ChainElementUsage.AnyPolicy)); chain.ChainPolicy.VerifyChainPolicy = false; X509Name endname = new X509Name(".example.com"); X509Name startname = new X509Name("..example.com"); bool match = chain.Build(
